

This week's astounding discovery is: Mystery of the Phantom Footprints

It was a nice sunny day so I decided to have a picnic. I spread a tablecloth on the ground and laid out plates of lovely food to eat. I went away for just a minute to wash my hands, but when I got back my food was gone and my tablecloth was covered with lots of muddy footprints. Who munched my lunch? Can you identify the phantom footprints? I took photographs of each plate of food as evidence.

Explore the farm, look out for footprints, and discover which animal eat which part of my picnic?

Exhibit One : my salad

Exhibit Two: my chocolate teacake.

Exhibit Three : my cup of coffee

Exhibit Four: my jammie dodgers

Please turn over for more evidence

Exhibit Five : my crisps

Exhibit Six : my banana.

Exhibit Seven : my sandwich

CLUE:
A chicken, a duck, a goat, a horse, a rabbit,
a rat, and a pig were all spotted acting suspiciously near the crime scene. But who ate what?

If you've solved the mystery write down the guilty animals in these boxes

Incident one : who snaffled my salad?

Incident two : who destroyed my chocolate teacake?

Incident three : who slurped my coffee?

Incident four: who nibbled my jammie dodgers?

Incident five: who crunched my crisps?

Incident six : who swallowed my banana?

Incident seven: who pecked my sandwiches?