

Pledge of Good Conduct

To be signed by all playschemes, out-of-school projects, and similar groups.

At Almond Valley we aim to provide a learning environment that is accessible to all, and we welcome many thousands of group visitors every year.

Almond Valley isn't like a country park where you can allow the kids to run around freely and unsupervised. By their nature, the features of our farm, museum and play areas require that accompanying adults are on hand to moderate boisterous behavior and prevent injury or damage. For this reason we don't admit unaccompanied children to the site.

Before accepting bookings, we require an undertaking from group leaders that their group will contain an adequate number of experienced adult helpers who will accompany the children at all times and remain responsible for their safety and good conduct. It is particularly important that they closely supervise children in play areas, and to ensure that hands are washed after contact with farm animals.

Without such an undertaking, we regret that we cannot accept your booking.
